(U) REPORTING PROCEDURES

(U) The Washington State Fusion Center (WSFC) supports activities to detect, deter, and prevent terrorism. This is accomplished through information collection, integration, analysis, reporting, and dissemination of analytical reports and other information across Federal, State, and Local government agencies, public officials, and private sector critical infrastructure key resource partners.

(U) Suspicious Activity Reporting (SAR) is behavior-focused. Race, ethnicity, national origin, or religious affiliation shall not be considered as factors which create suspicion. Any single indicator may not be cause for alarm. The totality of circumstances must be considered when making a decision to report suspicious activities.

(U) Information submitted to the Fusion Center is vetted and assessed through an intake process before it is for designated for analysis and dissemination. There are numerous mechanisms available for information submission:

- Northwest Warning, Alert, and Response Network (NWWARN): <http://www.nwwarn.org>
  - Select "Submit a Tip" on the NWWARN homepage for the submission form and fill out as much detailed information as possible, or
